WILDING

WILDING is an enchanting true tale of landscape restoration unfolds in this documentary inspired by Isabella Tree's award-winning book and narrated by the author herself. Directed by David Allen, the film captures the awe-inspiring adventure of Isabella and her husband Charles Burrell as they rejuvenate their ancestral estate, triumphing over doubting naysayers with their innovative approach to 're-wilding' the land. Set against the backdrop of their 3,500 acre British farm, their efforts, occasionally marked by comical mishaps as depicted in remarkable reenactment scenes replete with animal participation, are documented with stunning cinematography and engaging animation. Alongside time-lapse photography, the film reveals how marvelous and enlightening nature's fortitude is when given a chance, prompting contemplation of how we steward our land.

A SYMPHONY OF TINY LIGHTS

Nagged by a voice of conscience after witnessing an oil spill, a charming young man stopped talking and started walking from his home in Point Reyes. John Francis gave up motorized vehicles, maintained a vow of silence so he could better listen, and over the next 18 years earned a PhD and walked across the country, spreading what he believes is the secret sauce in life – kindness. Without uttering a word.
